About Charles David Tebbs

Charles David Tebbs is a retired author who turned to writing while seeking new projects to pursue. His passion for early American history and frontier storytelling found a natural home in historical fiction, culminating in his debut novel The Trail—a sweeping adventure set in the Wyoming Territory.

Drawing inspiration from meticulous research into early nineteenth-century America, Tebbs crafts a story that blends authentic historical detail with vivid invention. His approach brings American history together with compelling human drama, centering on loyalty, resilience, and what it means to forge a family through shared hardship.

Behind the Book

The Trail marks the beginning of a planned three-book sequence, continuing Charles David Tebbs' fictional adventures in early American frontier settings.
